

Helping out: a national survey of volunteering and charitable giving

Contributed by Cabinet Office
Sunday, 23 September 2007

Helping out: a national survey of volunteering and charitable giving is a new household survey of adults (aged 16 and over) in England which asks for details of people's views and experiences of participation in voluntary activity and charitable giving.

http://www.cabinetoffice.gov.uk/third_sector/documents/research_statistics/helping_out_national_survey_2007.pdf